She was as charming, magnetic, humorous, and fanciful throughout as she always is, and in some of the tearful moments, she took hold of the heartistrings of the audience with a grip that showed she had lost none of her emotional powers. After every curtain she had a great reall, and she was made to appear and re-appear so many times that it must have grown embarrassing to her. There was a plain intention on the part of the audience to force her to make a speech, but from this she shrank in the modest, appealing manner that so distinguishes her.

MAUD ADAMS IS DELIGHTED.

MAUD ADAMS IS DELIGHTED.

In the historic green room of the old Theater, which Manager Pyper had transformed into a fairy bower to serve as the star's dressing room, Miss Adams met quite a number of old friends last evening and chatted delightfully regarding her reminiscences and her future plans. She was full of enthusiasm over the memorable presentation of "Joan of Arc" at the Harvard Stadium last year, and of the coming presentation of "As You Like It," which she is to give in the Greek theater at Berkeley one night only on June 6. The present company, aided by Arthur Byron, who crosses the continent to take part in the presentation, will soon be put into rehearsal. This will be Miss Adams' first appearance as Rosalind, and without doubt the character will be retained in her repertoire permanently.

The playing of Maggle in "What Every Woman Knows," is a perpetual delight to her. "How I wish that wonderful man Mr. Barry, would turn out monther play like this." she said last evening. "I inderstand he and Mr. Frohman have been spending some time together in the south of France, and their busy heads ought certainly to produce something notable. What a gifted man Mr. Barry is, I have just had brought home to me again today in a little one act piece which came through the mail to me here. I have just road it, and it is a gem."

Miss Adams made some interested inquiries regarding the Orphans' Home, for which her matinee this afterneon was given, and if possible, she intends visiting the institution before her departure. In the audience last night were her mother, her grandmother, Mrs. Barney Adams, and quite a number of her uncles and aunts who came from distant points to be present at the family reunion which occurs today in honor of Mrs. Barney Adams's eighty fourth birthday. Yesterday the fam honor of Mrs. Battley fourth birthday. Yesterday the fam-ily was photographed in a group at the residence of Mrs. Kiskadden, Miss Adams's mother.

Orpheum—For the "society night" presentation of the Orpheum bill this evening there has been a good advance sale and the house, it is expected, will be filled to capacity.

hypnotism: it was scientific and he illustrated various forms of concentration.

Henry Kesne and Olive Briscoe offer a bright little farce called 'A Trial Marriage." It is well written, well acted and the curtain shows a pretty pleture of Miss Briscoe's singing "You'll be Sorcy Just Too Late."

Miss Addle Mitchell, who possesses a beautiful soprano voice, appeared in a number of classical and popular songs. She was the late prima donna with Williams and Walker, Her voice was clean as a bell and she made a hit with the audience.

The Levinos presented an amusing comedy sketch. Dolph Levinos gives a finely drawn bit of character work as a "foxy" busband. The sketch contains many bright lines and it is not overacted. Mrs. Suise Levinos is also good in her part. They close the act with some songs and a freeland portraiture.

Peter E Baker's characterizations in song and stuy are entertaining. He puts plenty of personality and magnetism into his work and meets with approval.

Daniels Theater—"Heartsease." presented by the Mack-Leone company, continue to please large audiences. The production is a fine one in scenic effects and in the portrayal of the various characters, Mr. Mack as Eric Temple, Miss Leone as Margaret Neville and Mr. John Willard as Lord Neville have made distinct impressions. The Impersonation of the character of the inst-headed Lord Neville, by Mr. Willard, is a good piece of acting and has brought forth many complimentary remarks, James R nule, Frederick Moore, Lillian Brockwell and Rosa Roma also come in for a big share of praise.

Flesh Forming Food That Succeeds Nearly Every Time.

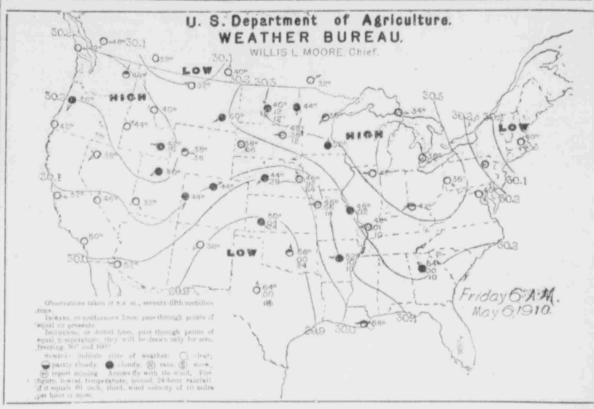

Nearly Every Time.

A man or woman might as well starve outright as to take food into the stomach and not have it assimilated, yet in Salt Lake City as well as in every other town or city, there are many people who are thin, pale and seem underfed, simply because the food they eat is not assimilated, and falls to make good blood and firm flesh.

Samose, the wonderful flesh forming food, taken before or after meals, mingles with the food, so that it is assimilated by the system and makes rich blood and pleasing plumpness.

Anyone who is thin, weak, scrawny and emaciated can put 50c on deposit with Z. C. M. I. Drug Dept and take home a box of Samose. If the treatment does not give a noticeable increase in good firm flesh and restore strength and health, they will return the money without any questions.
